All the teams that wanted to compete to win the championship, had to work their way through the qualification. NETHERLANDS, CZECH REPUBLIC and AUSTRALIA are the teams that people were counting within the finals. There are at least two famous players in each group, Nedved, Rosický, Kluivert, Van Nistel-rooy, Van Der Sar, Viduka but not even these players were strong enough to help their teams go to the finals. Netherlands wasn’t strong enough against the other teams in the group of Portugal and Ireland. The Czech Republic was ready after the first half of the qualification, but after all Denmark was better and the Czechs got Belgium into. They lost both games because of their undiscipline and not even one famous player was seen on the field. The Aussies were unbeatable and won the Oceania qualifications and also shot their way through Tonga 22:0. They got Uruguay into discard qualification and didn’t make it. The Brazilians had also problems and they could have lost the chance to get into the world champion, but after all they turned it all around and can be looking forward to the tournament.

The whole glory will start off with the match between .......... and Senegal. There will continue a basic part of 48 matches and it will be closed of 14th June with the finish of USA is and Poland’s league. There will be an intriguing game on 2nd June in the group F between England and Sweede. England as if rose from death in beat Germany 5:0 in The finals. They managed all this thanks to the best trainer of the year 2000 Swen Goran Erikson. He used to be the trainer of Lazio Rome and a citizen of Sweden. He managed to get the best out of Beckham and Owen and that is why one this match will be very interesting. The largest favourites of the world champ aren’t the French either Brazilians, but Argentina which won all its games without any major problems and won the group of South America the way they divided teams into groups showed to be very equal and small things are going to be very important in deciding the of the first two teams.

We will know who the next world champion in soccer will be on 28th June.
Mt. Fuji

A beautiful, conical peak that is the country’s tallest mountain at 3,776 meters (12,390 feet); the entire area around the base is a national park. The country has a mild, humid climate with four clearly distinct seasons.

Alphabet

Japan has its own alphabet written in two sets of characters called hiragana and katakana.

Kimonos are made of silk and are usually very expensive. Nowadays they are worn at formal or traditional occasions such as funerals, weddings, or tea ceremonies. Only rarely can kimono still be seen in everyday life.

Kimonos differ in style and colour depending on the occasion on which it is worn and the age and marital status of the person wearing it. To put on a kimono needs some practice. Especially tying the belt (obi) alone is difficult so that many people require assistance. Wearing a kimono properly includes proper hairstyle, traditional shoes, socks, underwear, and a small handbag for women.

Food

Sushi is the most famous Japanese dish outside of Japan, and one of the most popular dishes among the Japanese themselves who usually enjoy sushi on special occasions. During the Edo period, “sushi” was pickled fish conserved in vinegar. Nowadays sushi can be defined as a dish containing rice, which has been prepared with sushi vinegar. There are many different types of sushi. Some popular ones are:

Norimaki:
Sushi rice and seafood, etc. rolled in dried seaweed sheets. There are countless varieties of sushi rolls differing in ingredients and thickness. Sushi rolls prepared “inside out” (see right image below) are very popular outside of Japan.

Nigiri:
Small rice balls with fish, etc. on top. There are countless varieties of nigiri sushi, some of the most common ones being tuna, shrimp, eel, squid, octopus, and fried egg.
Sports

Baseball and soccer are popular. Tennis and skiing are popular, too. And many people jog or swim for health or play ball games, such as volleyball. Typical traditional sports are sumo, kendo, judo, and aikido. Three Olympic Games have been held in Japan: Tokyo hosted the Summer Games in 1964, and the Winter Games were hosted by Sapporo in 1972 and Nagano in 1998.

In sumo, two wrestlers face each other in a ring. The wrestler who brings his opponent down to the ground or pushes him out of the ring is the winner.

In kendo, two fencers wearing protectors each hold a long bamboo sword and compete to strike the opponent’s mask or chest with the sword.

Judo is now part of the official sports program at the Olympic Games. In judo, two wrestlers compete with various throwing and grappling techniques.

Karate came to Japan from China. Karate uses no weapons but instead relies on three basic movements of the hands and feet: thrusts, kicks, and arm strikes.

Musical instruments

The shamisen is a lute-like stringed instrument.
The koto has 13 strings on a long, rectangular body.
The shakuhachi is an end-blown bamboo flute measuring about 55 centimeters. There are four holes in front and one in the back.

The emperor

The emperor is limited to symbolic roles. Like in Britain the Japanese monarch does not have a political function. Based on the Diet’s designation, he appoints the Prime Minister. The reigning Emperor, Akihito, assumed the throne in 1989. The emperor and empress have two sons, Crown Prince Naruhito and Prince Akishino and one daughter, Princess Sayako. They also have two granddaughters.
Long, long ago in a far off land there lived a young man. One day, while working on his farm, a brilliant white crane came swooping down and crashed to the ground at his feet. The man noticed an arrow pierced through one of its wings. Taking pity on the crane, he pulled out the arrow and cleaned the wound. Thanks to his care the bird was soon able to fly again. The young man sent the crane back to the sky, saying, "Be careful to avoid hunters." The crane circled three times over his head, let out a cry as if in thanks, and then flew away.

As the day grew dark the young man made his way home. When he arrived, he was surprised by the sight of a beautiful woman whom he had never seen before standing at the doorway. "Welcome home. I am your wife," said the woman. The young man was surprised and said, "I am very poor, and cannot support you." The woman answered, pointing to a small sack, "Don't worry, I have plenty of rice," and began preparing dinner. The young man was puzzled, but the two began a happy life together. And the rice sack, mysteriously, remained full always.

One day the wife asked the young man to build her a weaving room. When it was completed, she said, "You must promise never to peek inside." With that, she shut herself up in the room. The young man waited patiently for her to come out. Finally, after seven days, the sound of the loom stopped and his wife, who had become very thin, stepped out of the room holding the most beautiful cloth he had ever seen. "Take this cloth to the marketplace and it will sell for a high price," said the wife. The next day the young man brought it to town and, just as she said, it sold for many coins. Happy, he returned home.

The wife then returned to the room and resumed weaving. Curiosity began to overtake the man, who wondered, "How can she weave such beautiful cloth with no thread?" Soon he could stand it no longer and, desperate to know his wife's secret, peeked into the room. To his great shock, his wife was gone. Instead, a crane sat intently at the loom weaving a cloth, plucking out its own feathers for thread.

The bird then noticed the young man peeking in and said, "I am the crane that you saved. I wanted to repay you so I became your wife, but now that you have seen my true form I can stay here no longer." Then, handing the man the finished cloth, it said, "I leave you this to remember me by." The crane then abruptly flew off into the sky and disappeared forever.
FIFA WORLD CUP

Penguin

Origami folds look most effective when they are displayed together. So why not try making a display of penguins.

You will need:
Square of paper, black on one side and white on the other

1. Turn the square around to look like a diamond, with the coloured side on top. Fold it in half from side to side.

2. From the top point, fold the topmost layer of paper over towards, but not to meet, the folded side.

3. Turn the paper over. Repeat step 2.

4. Unfold the paper into this position. Fold the top point down into the position as shown by the dotted lines, so making the penguin's head.

5. Turn the paper over. Fold the bottom point up as shown.

6. Fold it in half from side to side.

7. Holding the penguin as shown, pull its head upwards, so it becomes free and sticks out from the folded side.

8. To complete, press the top of the penguin's head flat. Try folding a baby penguin from a small square of paper, or a larger penguin from a bigger piece of paper.
